"From the Hawk's Nest"

Looking for "Mr. Right?"

Isn't it interesting how society strategically searches the Internet for valuable advice? If you need directions, search Google Maps. If you need investing tips, you can pull up hundreds of pages that update everyday with guidance from Wall Street. Even if you want to know something as worthless as "How many fence posts are in the state of Iowa?" the Internet is the solution!

But what about asking the Internet if the man you are dating is "Mr. Right?" I'm not sure why anyone would seek the counsel of cyberspace for something so serious! But since some obviously have, here are the answers for the questionable quest.

"How do I know he is Mr. Right?"

- 1) He listens to you
- 2) He connects with you easily
- 3) He wants the real you
- 4) He's trustworthy
- 5) He enriches your life

Hopefully Godly husbands meet these requirements for their precious wives. But even when we don't, isn't it nice that our wives can depend on someone else to be "Mr. Right?" Isn't it a blessing to know that we can depend on "Mr. Right?"

Does Jesus listen to you? Does Jesus connect with you easily? Does Jesus desire the real you? Is Jesus trustworthy? You better believe it! Does Jesus enrich your life? He wants to and He will! But He can't enrich your life, until you open the door and let Him begin!

Are you still looking for "Mr. Right?" Look no longer! "I have found a friend in Jesus, He's everything to me!"
